There is perhaps no reason why any one should attempt to excuse a man who deliberately gets drunk, but there is a disposition here to look leniently on the failing which was so apparent on Monday. The men had been shut up in close and crowded cars for many hours: hundreds of them cars for many hours; hundreds of them were practically without food for nearly a day. Then when they got here the strikers took them right into their arms and filled them up, in fact, there seemed to be a strenuous effort to make every man as drunk mous effort to make every man as drunk the police station. If the curio seakers continue to be as indusbeen this week there will be nothing left of the burned and wreked barges in which the Pinkertons came to Homestead. The rush for "relies" is continuous, and there is hardly an hour in the day when from ten to twenty men—most of them soldiers—cannot be found poking through the half-burned rubbish in search of something thich is deemed a satisfactory memento of a decidedly unpleasant affair. Until the river goes down two or three feet there is nothing more to be had than a few rusty nails or a fragment of charred timber. Some of the Debate in the Senate When i The case of Officer Archibald Mellen for man-The Senate yesterday afternoon passed the slaughter, in killing Charles Lomax on Decembill already printed in THE STAR coming from Great work has been done by the militia ber 14, was given to the jury in the Crimical Mr. Hunton in regard to licenses in the District. In calling the bill up Mr. Hunton said: "The necessity for the bill is very great, and without it the revenues of the District which ought to arise from the granting of licenses to sell liquor will be lost, because the courts have decided that under the law to which this is an amendment all a person desiring a license to sell whisky or other spirituous liquors has to do is to pay or tender the amount assessed." A short discussion followed on the question of the power to remit penalties under the act. REMISSION OF PENALTIES.

Mr. Palmer, in this connection, said: I think in a system like this there ought to be some provision which would entitle a party, after he had suffered imprisonment to some ex-tent, and upon proof of his insolvency, to a dis-tent, and upon proof of his insolvency, to a discharge.

Take a case where a fine of $10 is imposed by the court upon a party for failing to take out a license for peddling and the man is absolutely insolvent. The penalty may be a year's imprisonment. Now, ought not such a statute provide that after the party had suffered for his delinquency he should not be punished for his poverty, but should be entitled to a discharge after suffering; or, as in some states, that he should be imprisoned and entitled to a remission of a portion of the penalty for each day of imprisonment $1 a day, or $5 a day, or some other sum? A man ought not to be kept in jail simply because he is poor. He ought to be kept in jail only for crime, and poverty is not a crime to justify his detention.

In Illinois parties under certain circumstances are allowed, where they are imprisoned, to be credited with a specific sum for each day of imprisonment, so that after a number of days there is a prospect of deliverance of such insolvent party. The regular monthly meeting of the Anacostia Citizens' Association was held last night at there is a prospect of deliverance of such in-solvent party. I submit that such a provision ought to be inserted in this bill. Mr. Perkins said: If the Senator from Illinois will permit a suggestion I will call his attention to the fact that during this session we have passed a bill giving to the Commissioners the power of which he speaks. It is a general bill entirely applicable to the provisions of this act and applicable to the provisions generally of the statutes here governing crime in the District of Columbia. I think the Senator from Illinois will apply reflection should the from Illinois will, upon reflection, admit that each criminal statute that may be found upon the statute book of Illinois does not carry a proviso of the character he suggests, but there is a general power granted to the governor to grant pardons or that there is a power granted to the commissioners or the local tribunals to discharge from jail. That, however, is a general provision, and so we have here a general law giving to the Commissioners in this Dis-trict the power to grant pardons or to relieve from confinement in such cases as have been suggested by the Senator.

Mr. Palmer replied: I have but to add that offenses against police regulations are merely statutory and do not always imply moral turpitude. Such offenses presuppose some degree of guilt, and we have, ideally at least, some appropriate punishment which ought to be re-garded as an atonement for the crime. After that time the party becomes a mere debtor, and that time the party becomes a mere debtor, and any imprisonment which extends beyond that point, the ideal point suggested, is a mere imprisonment for debt, a mere imprisonment because the man can not pay. I should not be willing to vote for any bill which did not in itself, or which did not become a part of a system of laws, which would provide that a party after enduring a certain punishment should be entitled to discharge when there remains nothentitled to discharge when there remains nothing against him but his poverty.

The Senator from West Virginia (Mr. Faulkner) furnishes a satisfactory answer as to one of the points that the board of Commissioners have the power to remit. That meets one difficulty. I shall not press the other, but suggest sioner under appointments by Presidents Grant, Hayes and Garfield, general manager of He wrote a book on the Indian question entitled "Our Indian Wards," and edited the Ohio Statesman from 1859 to 1862. During his long life he enjoyed the friendship and esteem of it as a humane provision which ought to find a place in every system of law. The bill was then passed.

The Volcanic Eruptions in Italy.

The eruptions of lava from Mount Etna are increasing. The volcano is ejecting huge bould ers and streams of lava are pouring down the mountain side. The violence of volcanic dis-turbance surpasses anything seen since the be-ginning of the present outbreak. Enormous rocks, glowing and steaming, are shot a thou-sand feet in the air. Two hills have been upheaved and are emptying streams of glowing lava toward Nicolosi. People living near the base of the mountain are apprehensive, and the remarkable phenomena. Hundreds of
